MORE OF MCKINLEY'S AMERICANISM.

The dispatches report the firing upon an American steamer off the coast of Cuba by a Spanish cruiser, and the American ship forced to show her colors, and notwithstanding the steamer was well known in Cuban waters by the commander of the cruiser as being in the service of an American line, he openly stated that he fired upon her to compel her to show her colors. And now comes a garbled Premier of the Spanish Government and proclaims that the cause of the death of General Ruiz and other American citizens, who it is claimed died in a Spanish prison from neglect and ill treatment, are exaggerated. He goes further and says that he, "does not believe that President McKinley has any unfriendly intentions toward Spain, but if the United States departs from a friendly attitude, Spain will surely be able to defend herself."

Again, the United States Government is insulted, and this time by a foreign power that has neither credit nor standing and which steps into our very threshold and spits in our face, and yet Mr. McKinley's foreign policy must be recognized and respected as the trusts to which he is closely allied might suffer should this Government interfere with Spain's brutal policy towards Cuba.

Why should the United States interfere? According to Mr. McKinley's policy it is the proper thing for Weyler to go on with his butchery of women and children right under our nose, allow American citizens to be jailed and American shipping to be fired upon as long as bond holders and trusts are profiting out of the condition of affairs in Cuba.

AS OTHERS SEE US

The London Times in commenting on McKinley's policy says: "Six months have passed since Mr. McKinley was elected, yet nothing has been done to redeem the pledges to which the business world attached the chief importance. To outside observers the Government of the United States appears to be running grave risks with a wonderful light heart. It will not need a long continued drain of gold to bring the American Treasury face to face with the necessity of another loan."

"President McKinley thinks that everything can be remedied by a high tariff. If the proposed duties fail to bring prosperity, his natural impulse will be to raise them higher."

And thus we are absolutely ridiculed by our English neighbors who are waxing rich over the worse than driving policy of the Republican leaders. How long! Oh! Lord, how long will Americans be compelled by the manipulation of trusts, who promise office, to bear the insults of foreign nations and sit supinely by while they dictate the management of our affairs. Tariff indeed, what will it amount to? Even the various schedules are arranged to suit foreign competitors and a big show is made on the tariff on wheat and cotton, simply to fool the farmer and cotton planter and lead them to believe that the tariff is in their interest.

The condition of affairs and the comments from abroad forces a native born citizen to stop and muse and give audible expression to his thoughts, viz: "And they say this is America."

And now comes Minister de Lome, who says that General Lee submitted a lot of sentimental pleadings, unsupported by evidence regarding the death of Dr. Ruiz and the existing conditions in Cuba, yet Spain's statement in the case comes from men of the highest standing in that country, and for this reason Spain will not be called upon to pay $150,000 to the widow of the murdered American.

Spain not only murders Americans, but denies the statements of the representatives of this country and sets her own subjects up as being more truthful. Also that the American Consul's statement is erroneous.

In other words according to the wise men of Spain all Americans are liars and their statements of the outrageous murder of Dr. Ruiz should not be credited.

Is President McKinley going to accept all of this "hog wash" from a foreign power and humiliate our own representatives as well as the whole country simply to protect the interests of a few individuals?

With the approach of the State Republican convention to be held during the present month at Toledo, Ohio, comes murmurings of discontent and fear of trouble on that occasion. The northern half of the State is intensely in favor of Foraker and that means a decided coolness on the endorsement of Mark Hanna for re-election to the United States Senate. Foraker's friends have already established headquarters in the city of Toledo and are making a close canvass. The anti-Hanna sentiment is rapidly increasing and even at Cleveland, Hanna's home, there is a strong feeling against returning him. He will probably be compelled to open another sack campaign.

The Whaleback steamer City of Everett sailed for India yesterday from San Francisco with a cargo of grain and other food stuffs for the famine stricken natives of that country.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

The Jones amendment to remove the effect of the Dutch standard was rejected by a vote of 29 to 32.

Ohacon, a convicted murderer and under sentence of death, escaped from the Solomonville, Arizona jail, on last Wednesday night and has not been caught.

Francois Jensens a rich bishop died on the steamer Creel enroute from New Orleans to New York. It was his intention to take a steamer at New York for Holland.

Next Thursday Charles Hennessy will be released from San Quentin where he has spent the last two years for a crime recently discovered evidence shows he never committed.

The Bering Sea arbitrators will meet at Montreal on June 16th for the purpose of fixing a day and place to hear counsel. The United States counsel will apply for a reopening of the case.

There is talk of forming a vigilance committee at Cripple Creek. Crimes all kinds are frequent and the people are becoming tired and have about determined to take the law into their own hands.

Captain Skillings says the Valencia is no stranger in Cuban waters and it is reported that the Captain of the cruiser openly stated that he knew her but fired upon her purposely to force her to show her colors.

The two-story residence of Wm. Navel in south Seattle was burned yesterday morning and Mrs. Navel was so badly burned that she is not expected to live. The rest of the family barely escaped in their night clothes.

The report that the body of H. M. Singer of Chicago, who died at Pasadena, Calif., had been disinterred and traces of 'poison had been found is emphatically denied by the administrator of the estate, C. B. Kimball.

The jury at Liberty, Mo., in the Foley double murder case reported a second time that it was impossible to reach a verdict. After the report there was talk of lynching the prisoner, but the authorities believed they could prevent it.

Judge Coffey of San Francisco rendered a decision yesterday in connection with the contest over the estate of the late Dr. Charles A. James, holding that an alleged marriage contract of Laura Milen was a forgery. She claimed half of his estate.

The American Ward line steamer Valencia reports that after leaving the harbor of Guantanamo on Cuba, having saluted the forts, the Spanish cruiser Maria Mercedes bore down on her and fired a blank shot across her bows. This was quickly followed by a solid shot. The Valencia then showed her colors and the cruiser steamed away.

Senator Vest of Missouri spoke yesterday, arraigned the sugar schedule and claimed that speculators in sugar stock understood the value of the sugar trust, if the Republican Senators did not. McEnery of Louisiana who had voted against the Democratic party on many tariff schedules, defended his position and advocated the sugar schedule and spoke in favor of protection.

The Republican Senators in caucus failed to reach an agreement on the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty, and adjourned to meet in caucus next Monday. Senator Frye announced that the contemplated treaty would not contain as did the former treaty, a provision of $50,000 for ex-Queen Lilioukalanui, that the President did not approve of it, and the Hawaiian Government did not want it.

The Spanish Premier, Senor Canovas del Castillo is reported as saying that if the widow of Dr. Ruiz demanded an indemnity and her claim was shown to be justified, Spain would see that justice was done. He also added that he did not believe that President McKinley had any unfriendly intentions toward Spain, but if the United States departs from a friendly attitude, Spain will surely be able to defend her rights.

A dispatch from Atchinson, Kansas, says that Joseph W. Oliver, now under arrest for blowing up Governor Smith's residences with dynamite, purchased two sticks of the stuff, five caps and twenty-five yards of fuse at Leavenworth. It is also proved that Oliver was absent from Leavenworth over five hours. Phillips, another dishonorably discharged soldier is also under arrest. Mrs. Smith's condition is some better and she is probably out of danger.

Precious Meals.

Almost any dish which had to recommend it rarely, costliness, indigestibility, and, to our way of thinking, nastiness, was sure to take with the Roman epicure. And if he were unable to make it costly any other way he would add powdered precious stones or gold dust. Nero dined on one occasion from a peacock which was sprinkled with diamond dust, and specimens of that bird dressed with gold or with crushed pearls were by no means a rarity at the triclinia of the moneyed Romans. A dish of parrots' tongues was a great delicacy. But a dish of parrots' tongues which had been capable, when in their proper place, of framing words, was of almost incalculable value, which increased in a direct ratio with the vocabularies of the defunct parrots.

Another bird for which the Roman epicure was in the habit of paying fabulous prices was the phoenix, which is believed to have been the phoenix. It had its home in the most southerly parts of Scotland and Norway, and as this made it hard to get at the Romans appreciated it all the more and put it in the same rank with ostriches, peacocks and parrots. The tongues of these birds were specially prepared, together with the brains, and took the place which a home d'oeuvre would now take.—New York Post.

Her Point of View.

They were discussing the construction of a new gown.

"From a hygienic point of view and merely as a matter of health," suggested the dressmaker, "I think it should be made."

The haughty beauty stopped her by a gesture.

"Hygienic point of view!" she exclaimed. "Matter of health! What has that to do with it? When I want health, I will go to a doctor. When I want style, I come to you. We will now eliminate all absurdities and discuss this purely from a common sense standpoint. Will it be fashionable and becoming?"—Philadelphia Times.

The Struggling Young Author.

"I have always read, and always with interest," said the struggling young author, "what literary men had to say concerning their habits of work. In many cases productivity appears to depend upon mood—sometimes a man can write and sometimes he can't. A man feeling in condition can do any sort of work, no doubt, better than when he is out of condition, but a man may be mistaken in himself. I find that it is a good thing to make a beginning."

"Often the mere effort of making a beginning is enough to dispel clouds that have seemed to be heavy, but which are shown to be mere films, and one touch of concentration is enough to bring back faculties that you had thought were wandering far from home, but were really loafing about right near, waiting to be called."—New York Sun.

A Coincidence.

"The man who brought this in," remarked the editor's assistant as he unfolded half a yard of manuscript, "told me confidentially that he needed the money for it."

"Yes," was the melancholy answer. "It's a strange fact that the longest poems seem almost invariably to be written by the shortest poets."—Washington Star.

Argentine Railroads.

In the Argentine Republic the service of trains is appallingly irregular, chiefly owing to the bad state of the permanent way, which, when once laid, is left to take care of itself. The permanent way in some parts of the line is in such a dilapidated condition that almost every train is thrown off the rails.

The astounding fact is contained in a recent report of the railway engineers. The rate of traveling, too, is a thing to be wondered at. One day a train left a spot, on a go as you go basis, at 10 a. m. and never traveled faster than a mile per hour. One day the same train on the journey by stopping at a quiet station, the line, stopping to pick up passengers, how fast. There is no fear that the train will catch you up.—Harper's Round Table.

Noticed Before.

"I see that the scientists have discovered that solid metal actually evaporates."

"Gee! I bet that is what comes of all my money."—Indianapolis Journal.

There is an arrant democrat and better gift giver.—Mrs. C. G. Jones.

Age Saves Shoo Leather.

A New Yorker of middle life has discovered that the older he grows, the longer he wears his shoes, and consequently the less is his shoe bill. As a young man he wore out at least four pairs a year. Two now suffice him, without tapping or any repairing. The thinnest of single soles now wear twice as long as double soles did. He walks quite as much as he ever did, but his tread is less heavy, and that is why his shoes wear longer.

His experience is that of others who have reached his years. The reverse is notoriously true. The younger a child is, the sooner he will wear out his shoes. All fathers and mothers will agree to that.—New York Sun.

His Experience.

Smithers—You do the captain an injustice when you say he has never been under fire.

Smother—Tut, tut! When has he been?

Smithers—I have seen his enemies heap coals of fire upon his head more than once.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Men are born with two eyes, but with one tongue, in order that they should see twice as much as they say.—Colton.

In the very best behavior of which we are naturally capable there is still some measure of selfishness.—Luthean.

Rivals For Fame.

"I'm going to introduce a bill," declared the first legislator, "prohibiting any and all persons from going up in a balloon."

"There's where you show your lack of statesmanship," sneered the second legislator. "My bill will make it an offense punishable by fine and imprisonment to fall out of a balloon."—Detroit Free Press.

A famous French dean used to tell a ghost story, the hero of which is in the question. "What is the ghost, is this?" "A ghost," he said, "is a man taking a walk in the night."

WE CELEBRATE.

The Committees Appointed and Duties Outlined.

A number of citizens met at Justice Linn's Court-room last evening to receive the report of the Finance Committee and arrange further preliminaries for the 4th of July celebration. The Finance Committee reported funds subscribed amounting to nearly $600. The financial part being an assured fact, the program for the day became the subject of discussion. It was at last decided to appoint committees on the various details, they being ordered to report on next Saturday evening.

The following committees were then appointed:

On Program and Order of the Day, Messrs. McNeilly, Perkins and Gennessy.
On Decoration, Messrs. Leadbetter, Green and O. Gilson.
On Horribles, Messrs. Pugh and Leeper.
On Games and Sports, Messrs. B. Rosenthal, C. F. Becker and A. C. Helms.
By next Saturday evening the committees will probably have matters arranged so that the details of the celebration can be announced. It is proposed to have a genuine old fashioned "whoop up," not expensive or elaborate, but simply in recognition of the day and to give our home people and as many visitors as desire to come from neighboring towns a day's pleasure at comparatively small outlay.

The "Horrible" parade will be a feature as many new and original as well as funny ideas will be worked up in the procession. The ball in the evening will give the young folks an opportunity to wind up the day with the merry dance.

Accident at Lake Tahoe.

Quite a serious accident happened at Saxton's camp, Lake Tahoe, Thursday afternoon. Tom Whiting, the engineer of the stationary engine, was badly injured by the breaking of the cable. The engine is used to haul the logs up the hill and an endless cable is run over the pulleys. Whiting was standing near the pulley when the cable broke and one end of the flying coil struck him in the head and then wrapped around his neck. When he was rescued he was found to be badly bruised and it is thought that he is seriously injured. Dr. Lee left for the lake yesterday to attend him.—Appeal.

The School Census.

The school census of Reno School District No. 10, has been completed and the returns filed. Dr. Bowman, the Census Marshal, has made a very close canvass, the result of which is as follows:

Boys between 6 and 18 years . . . . . 495
Girls between 6 and 18 years . . . . . 494
Total of school age . . . . . 989
Under 6 years of age . . . . . 188
Between 18 and 21 years . . . . . 70
Total under 21 years . . . . . 1,245

The census shows an increase of 29 of school age over last year, there being 980 children returned per last report.

At the Theatre.

The Shaw Dramatic Company played to the largest audience of their week's engagement last evening. The comedy Triss was the attraction and the audience was kept in a roar of laughter most of the evening. Sam Shaw's portrayal of the old tipsy Judge was so natural that many would have bet that he was about "half shot." The remainder of the cast was, as usual excellent, and the Shaw Company leave Reno with the endorsement of a liberal patronage during their stay here as well as a feeling that they gave general satisfaction.

A Grand Fizzle.

Private advices from one of the crew of the brig Percy Edwards, which sailed from San Francisco some two months ago for the Solomon Islands, with a party of 100 men, who expected to find an Adamless Eden to colonize, have been received to the effect that the expedition collapsed at Fiji. After a general distribution of community property, many of the colonists left the vessel, and sought employment on the shore and the remainder resolved to take the brig to New Zealand, where she will be sold at auction. The proceeds are to be divided.

A Paper Edited and Published by Lunatics.

A copy of the Lancaster Argus, edited and published by the inmates of the Provincial Lunatic Asylum, St. John, N. B., has come to hand. The typographical work is also all done by the patients. It is well arranged and the matter covers general news, romance, poetry and humor, and demonstrates beyond all possibility of contradiction that even a crazy man or a number of them can run a newspaper.

Elaborate Decorations.

Twelve hundred and eighty pounds of palm leaves will be used in the decoration of the Piper Opera House at Virginia on the occasion of the High School graduating exercises and ball at that city.

It is claimed that the decorations will be more elaborate than at any similar occasion ever held on the coast. This does not look like times are so very hard on the Comstock.

District Court.

The Foley estate case progressed slowly yesterday, the day being taken up in arguments by attorneys on various points. At 4 o'clock the Court adjourned until next Tuesday, some of the attorneys having engagements elsewhere on Monday. It is quite probable that all of next week will be taken up with the case.

BREVITIES.

The Riverside Hotel will serve an elegant dinner this afternoon and Captain Gosse and his right hand man, Geo. W. Cheek, will make everybody feel at home.
M. H. Grossmayer, a bond broker, has commenced suit against the San Francisco Stock and Bond Exchange to recover damages in the sum of $25,000, alleged to have been sustained on account of a conspiracy on the part of members to drive him out of business.
Theater Nicholson, the villain of the Shaw Company, in his particular line has few equals. Although a pleasant gentleman socially and on the street, his stage business is so realistic that the audiences before which he appears become so worked up over his mimic villainy that it is a wonder that he is not lynched.
M. A. Gunst & Co. of San Francisco have presented their representative, Charles F. Lecker, with a large and beautiful General Arthur sign which now adorns the front of his building. He is in a position to furnish all merchants with the above signs in three sizes at factory prices. The wholesale trade is solicited.
Frank Schuler, one of Sacramento's handsomest and best boys, representing Hall, Lubbs & Co., spent the day here yesterday. Andy Hampel, the well known representative of this firm, is temporarily laid off by illness, but Frank is an able lieutenant, and up to date in all things and a more popular or pleasant young man cannot be found in a day's travel.

Dexter Hoisting Works Burned

Hoisting works No. 4, of the Dexter Mining Co., situated near the Tuscarora school house, were completely destroyed by fire about 8 o'clock Thursday morning. Hugh Bowman, the engineer, left his engine and went into the boiler room to warm up the lunches of the men working under ground. Everything was all right when he left his post, but on his return fifteen minutes later the building was on fire. The men came to the surface through upraises and winzes and everything possible was done to save the building and contents. The fire had gained too much headway, however, and everything was destroyed. Opinion is divided as to whether the fire was accidental or the work of an incendiary. The loss is estimated at about $1,500.—Independent.

A Valuable Prescription.

Editor Morrison of Worthington, Ind., writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for constipation and sick headache, and as a general system tonic it has no equal." Mrs. Annie Stehle, 2625 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, was all run down, could not eat nor digest food, had a backache which never left her and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Prices 50 cents and $1. Get a bottle at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store.

TIMING BIG PROJECTILES.

How Their Initial Velocity Is Calculated In Tests at Sandy Hook.

To the layman one of the interesting features in a big gun test is the method by which the initial velocity of the projectile is calculated. When he hears that the modern high power guns often expel a shot at an initial velocity of 2,600 feet a second, a rate that if sustained would carry a shell in three seconds, he wonders the difficulty of calculating the speed. An Ordnance officer must have accurate knowledge of the velocity of a projectile, that he may predict its course, its penetration and determine the accuracy of the gun. It is a comparatively easy matter, however, with the new instruments to calculate accurately the initial velocity of a projectile and any one who is fortunate enough to visit Sandy Hook when big guns are being tested may see how it is done.

Two gun frames are set up 150 feet apart in front of the gun. Wires are stretched back and forth across these frames, making a screen through which the shot must pass. The wires in each screen form a complete electric circuit, which includes also an electric battery and an electro magnet. The projectile, after leaving the gun, flies through the wire in the first screen, interrupting the circuit and releasing the armature of the magnet. In a space of time so small as to be hardly conceivable the projectile has covered the distance between the two frames and pierced the wire in the second, interrupting its electric current and releasing the armature of its magnet, as in the first case. The interval between the drop of these two armatures represents the time spent by the projectile in traveling 150 feet. This time is indicated by the chronograph in the laboratory near by. Wires run from each screen to the laboratory, which is fitted up with batteries and switchboards.

The armature of the first electro magnet is an iron rod about 3 feet long, which is suspended vertically. This rod falls when the second electro magnet is placed a little below the first, and when it is released it acts as a knife, and, striking the side of the falling rod, makes a slight mark. The distance of this cut or mark from the end of the rod indicates the distance through which the rod has dropped while the projectile is passing from one screen to another. This forms the unit for the calculation of the projectile's velocity in feet per second. New explosives and high power guns have increased the initial velocity of projectiles wonderfully in the last few years. Projectiles may be expelled now with a force that will make them effective at a range far beyond ordinary eyesight.—New York Sun.

Teach spelling from the blackboard.

A revival of the old fashioned spelling school has been tried in some localities, but only to prove that it does not, as a rule, teach the poor spellers. They may have learned to spell, but they are not wanted in a spelling school. The spelling school was for the gratification of the good spellers. It did something, no doubt, for depraved human cells before such mysteries were ever heard of in connection with spelling books—before physical inertia could be charged to weak valvular heart action, and ugly tempers to microbes, and all the rest. The spelling school belongs to a just depression, says my friend, but it suggests what might do much for orthography, if the blackboard were made a conspicuous feature and the attention concentrated upon the reading and writing of sentences, of which the following might be an example: "Mr. Wright, the wheelwright, does not write right," with helpful stories occasionally like that of the teacher who wrote upon the board the three words, "Boys, lies, bear," asking the children to construct and write a sentence in which these words would be used intelligently, one boy giving at once, "His bees bear when they goe in the hive."—Brooklyn Eagle.

There were no public bequests in the will of William T. Adams (Oliver Optic). It was very brief and was written in the author's own hand, under date of April 31, 1855. "As a simple token of my affection and regard to my sons—W. S. Smith Russell and George W. W. Adams, I give $1,000 each." All the remainder of his estate, including his copyrights and other literary property, he bequeaths to his daughter, Mrs. Alice Adams Russell, the wife of Sol Smith Russell.

The man who has begun to live more seriously within begins to live more simply without.—Bishop Brooks.

Upon taking editorial charge of the Kennebec Journal Mr. Blaine soon familiarized himself with Maine politics by studying the files of The Journal, and he studied them closely as far back as 1826. By this means he soon became the best posted man in the state on Maine politics, and he was looked upon as authority. His able editorials during the campaign bringing up political matters of the past showed careful research, and they were copied widely. It was while editor of The Journal that he was one day stopped on the street by an old lady whom he had never seen before and asked to write up the wedding of her daughter, which occurred the night before.

Blaine had served his time in congress and went to Maine to speak during his campaign, when at the close of his speech he began shaking hands with the masses crowded around him. An old lady with wrinkled brow and whitened hair, bearing a babe in her arms, approached and offered her hand.

"Why, how do you do?" said Mr. Blaine. "Where's that daughter of yours I wrote up that wedding notice about?"

"Poor Lucy is dead," said the old lady, and her eyes filled with tears. "This is her child."

The man with the big, kind heart reached over and kissed the little blue eyed girl.

During the Greeley campaign in 1872 ex-Governor Cumback of Indiana spoke with Mr. Blaine in Springfield, O. This was early in the campaign. Just before the election Mr. Cumback was sent up in Blaine's state to make a speech. He was told by the committee that he would find Maine people very stiff and inhospitable and quite different from the western people. Mr. Cumback was surprised, however, at his enthusiastic reception, there being large crowds everywhere, and he never had a more enthusiastic meeting than at Augusta. He told Blaine of the incident and his agreeable disappointment.

"Oh," said the statesman, "they had a man of unusual stuff to get them stirred up! Such a man on a speech as you are would have a good reputation anywhere."

"But what do you know about my speech?" asked the governor.

"Didn't you speak with me over at Springfield?" said Blaine in a way as a reminder. Then he went ahead and told Mr. Cumback all about his speech, of the crowd present and gave promptly all the main points of the speech and even named the party with them. He also remembered at what hotel they put up and what day of the week it was.

Another instance of Blaine's great memory is cited in the following story, as told by Mr. Cumback:

During the United States campaign Mr. Blaine spoke in Cumback's town. He was entertained by Mr. Cumback and dinner given him.

"There's a great many that house (then that I've been talking you up for president for over twelve years," said the governor, "and he thinks there is no use for Mr. Blaine."

"No for president?" said Blaine.

"Yes, you for president. Do you want to stop and go in to see him a minute? Nothing would please him better."

They went in and remained a few minutes. Blaine talked to the children on his lap and talked freely with the sick man, whose name was David Kerr.

Blaine and the governor met at Garfield's inauguration.

"How are you, Will?" asked Blaine. And he asked all about the men he had met in Cumback's town several months before and called nearly all of them by their first names. "Oh, yes," he said, "how is Dave Kerr? Did he ever get well? Poor fellow, he suffered terribly. And those little children, how about them?"

This may be considered a wonderful feat of memory. It was in October when he met the people, and it was on the 4th of March, nearly five months afterward, that he recalled his visit, remembering the name of every person he was introduced to on that day. He had seen a million people since that time and had shaken hands with and met thousands.

Mr. Cumback accompanied Mr. Blaine on his speaking tour through Indiana during his campaign in 1884. It was probably before election Cumback had heard of Blaine, saying that he would like to see him again until the inauguration.

"I don't know," said Blaine doubtfully. "I'm afraid it won't be."

He had an unusual, vacant, faraway look in his eyes, and he was very serious. His words came slowly and hesitatingly. Mr. Cumback assured him that there was no doubt, but Blaine shook his head.

"I don't know," said he. "I've had a sort of feeling for the last week that I wouldn't be here. I hope I will, but the chances are awful, and I feel now as if I were very unwell. But if I am, I'll be here on the 4th day of March."

At the inauguration Mr. Cumback was one of the first to see Mr. Blaine.
